I. FINDING LAWYERS ON THE INTERNET

Internet legal sites are often the best places to find current directory information concerning attorneys. The most comprehensive website for locating lawyers and law firms is the Martindale-Hubbell site (<http://www.martindale.com/>). One must pay to be listed there, so it does not list all lawyers but it is fairly inclusive.

Though not as comprehensive as Martindale-Hubbell, the Findlaw Lawyer Directory (<http://lawyers.findlaw.com>) is another option. Findlaw receives its directory information from Westlaw's subscriber lists and from lawyers who sign up to be included. With Findlaw, listings are free but lawyers pay to have their names shown more prominently on the search results lists. Both sites have basic search features geared towards consumers looking for an attorney referral by practice area, city and state. Both also include advanced searches on fields such as firm name, country, and language spoken.

The American Bar Association's ABA Network Lawyer Locator allows one to search for attorneys throughout the U.S. and in other countries (<http://www.abanet.org/premartindale.html>). It is essentially the Martindale-Hubbell Directory, but allows a search based on ABA membership. Other sites with links to attorney listings include the Hieros Gamos attorney search page (<http://www.hg.org/lawfirms.html>) and the Internet Resource Guide (<http://www.ilrg.com/lawyers.html>). The Internet Resource Guide is particularly good for finding listings for top Asian, European and UK firms (see the bottom of their main page).

If you are seeking a lawyer in a specific state or local area, the regional bar association's website is another good place to start. You can locate a lawyer by name or search for one by subject. In some cases, the bar association has listings of lawyers "certified" in particular areas of law. That usually means that the lawyers on the list have a certain level of experience or have taken required courses (or a certain number of continuing education credits) in a particular legal specialty. Bar association sites are also useful in searching for an attorney or firm by name, and can provide information about whether an attorney has been the subject of any disciplinary actions.

To locate an attorney through a particular state bar association go to the ABA Division for Bar Services website at <http://www.abanet.org/barserv/stlobar.html> and choose a state from the map, or go to the Hieros Gamos bar association page (<http://www.hg.org/bar-associations-usa.html>). Both sites have links to state and (some) local bar associations.

II. GENERAL DIRECTORIES OF LAWYERS

The Best Lawyers in America. 2 vols. Biennial. (Ref. KF190 .N23) Selective list of lawyers who were recommended for inclusion by other lawyers. Arranged by specialty and then geographically.

Law Firms Yellow Book. Semiannual. (Ref KF 190.L376) A "who's who" in the management of the leading U.S. law firms. Firms are listed alphabetically and the entries include managing and hiring partners and recruiting coordinators. Information also includes law school attended and year of graduation.

Lawyer's Register International by Specialties and Fields of Law. 2006. (Ref. KF190.L39). Despite its name, this directory's coverage is almost exclusively within the United States, with scattered references to Canadian & U.K. lawyers. But, it is a great tool for finding lawyers by specialty and also gives information about states' certification of specialists in particular areas of law. It also provides contact information for lawyers at major corporations within the U.S.

Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory. Annual. (Ref. KF190 .M371) Vols. 1-12 list attorneys by state and city. Contains separate biographical entries for many firms. There is a separate set listing Canadian and international lawyers and a set of law digests for the states and foreign countries. The digest section includes information about general laws (e.g. motor vehicle, domestic violence, etc.) in specific states and countries, information on the A.B.A. and the text of many uniform acts. The web version, which does not contain the digest, is at <http://www.martindale.com>.

Who's Who in American Law. Biennial. (Ref. KF190 .W46 and in Biography Resource Center, <http://library.duke.edu/metasearch/db/id/DUK00137>) Biographical information on approximately 20,000 lawyers and other professionals in law-related fields. There is an index by field of specialization.

III. INDIVIDUAL STATES AND STATE BAR ASSOCIATIONS

Many states have posted online directories that are available to the public for searching. They are usually located on that state's bar association web site. The ABA and Hieros Gamos sites mentioned above contain links to state and local bar associations, many of which have directory information for individual bar members and law firms. Some bar sites may restrict access to their directories to bar members only. Below, we have listed the state print resources that are available for your use at the Goodson Law Library.

ALASKA

Alaska Directory of Attorneys. Semiannual. (Ref. KF192 .A55 A4) Listing of attorneys by judicial district. Also has information on courts and other government agencies.

The second half of the book has a good list of trial attorneys first indexed by litigation specialty and then in an alphabetic list of all academy members followed by a list by county.

North Carolina Legal Directory. Annual. (Ref. KF192 .N67) Arranged by county and city. Indexes attorneys by name and firm name. Small biographical section and section on government agencies.

WISCONSIN

Wisconsin Lawyer Directory. Annual. (Ref. KF192 .W5 W57) Alphabetical listing of attorneys, with a separate section for brief attorney biographies. Includes addresses for state judges, as well as information on the state bar association and other professional services.

IV. SPECIALIZED AREAS OF PRACTICE BY SPECIALTY

Specialized print directories are, more and more, yielding to online resources, which are able to provide more flexible search options and more currency. However, many associations limit access to members only. Below are some of the print and online directories available for specialized fields.

Business: Chambers USA : America's Leading Business Lawyers, (Ref KF190 C43 & <http://www.chambersandpartners.com/usa/search.aspx>). Based on interviews with attorneys and clients, this guide rates attorneys and firms on a scale of 1-6. Directories can be searched by attorney or firm name or location.

Corporate Counsel: Directory of Corporate Counsel. 2 vols. Annual. (Reserve KF195.C6 D57) Lists over 5,000 companies and includes biographical data on attorneys. Government authorities with business functions listed separately. There are geographic, corporate, and name indexes. Cross-references between parent company and subsidiaries.

Criminal Law: National Directory of Prosecuting Attorneys. Biennial. (Ref KF9640.A16 N37) Arranged by state and judicial circuit or county. Includes a name index and a guide to each state's prosecution system. Does not list assistant prosecutors.

Disability Law: American Bar Association's Disability Law Directory (<http://www.abanet.org/disability/disabilitydirectory/home.shtml>). One can search this directory by state and city to get a list of attorneys practicing disability law. No biographical information is provided.

Human Rights: National Lawyers Guild Referral Directory. Annual. (Ref. KF195 .P8 N37) A listing by state of lawyers, legal workers, law students and jailhouse lawyers who are members of the National Lawyers Guild, a national progressive bar association whose members are oriented toward social change.

Legal Aid: Directory of Legal Aid and Defender Offices. Annual. (Reserve KF336.A4 D57) Separate listings for legal aid and defender offices, arranged geographically. Includes section on special program offices with brief description of programs providing legal support services to legal aid or defender attorneys.

Patents: The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office web site contains an up-to-date directory of patent attorneys at <https://oedci.uspto.gov/OEDCI/>. The directory is arranged by state/territory and there are links to foreign and military addresses.

V. WOMEN AND MINORITY ATTORNEY LISTINGS

Web sites for specialized bar associations for women and minorities include the National Bar Association, founded in 1925 by African-American attorneys (<http://www.nationalbar.org>), the National Asian Pacific American Bar Association (<http://www.napaba.org>), and the National Association of Women Lawyers (<http://www.nawl.org>). While most of these specialized bar sites contain directories, you have to be a registered member to access them.

Minority Partners in Majority/Corporate Law Firms Online Directory. This publication is produced by the ABA's Commission on Racial and Ethnic Diversity in the Profession. One can view listings alphabetically, by specialty, by location or by firm. http://www.abanet.org/minorities/partners/dir/alpha_index.html .

National Directory of Women-Owned Law Firms and Women Lawyers. Annual. (Ref. KF190.N36). Lawyers must pay to be listed in this directory. The directory consists of 5 sections: section 1 lists law firms that are 50% or more women-owned; section 2 lists individual women lawyers at law firms; section 3 lists women lawyers who are government employees or are employed by a nonprofit organization; section 4 contains an index of all attorneys by practice and geographic area; section 5 contains an index of law firms (women and non-women owned), and separately lists the advertisers and directory sponsors.

VI. INTERNATIONAL

Most of the websites listed at the beginning of this guide for finding attorneys and law firms include international listings. A list of print directories is compiled below.
